

Institute for Urban Studies

Cycling Reference List

- Adonis. (1998). Analysis and development of new insight into substitution of short car trips by cycling and walking: How to substitute short car trips by cycling and walking. Luxemburg: Office for Official Publications of the European Communities.
- Australian Capital Territory. Department of Urban Services. (1997). Canberra bicycle 2000: A bicycle strategy for the Australian capital territory. Canberra: Canberra: Publications and Public Communication for the Department of Urban Services.
- Bicycle Federation of America. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no.5. an analysis of current funding mechanisms for bicycle and pedestrian programs at the federal, state and local levels. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Bowman, B. L. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 13, A synthesis of existing bicyclist and pedestrian related laws and enforcement programs. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Burke, E. R. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 14, benefits of bicycling and walking to health: Submitted to federal highway administration. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Carlsson, C. (Ed.). (2002). Critical mass: Bicycling's defiant celebration. Oakland, CA: AK Press.
- Carter, E. C., & Levinson, D. M. (1992). National bicycling and walking study. case study no.2. the training needs of transportation professionals regarding the pedestrian and bicyclist. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Crawford, J. H. (2000). Carfree cities. Utrecht: International Books.

- David Evans and Associates. (1992). National bicycling and walking study. case study no.3. what needs to be done to promote bicycling and walking?. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Edmonton. Transportation Planning Branch. (1992). City of edmonton bicycle transportation plan. Edmonton, AB: Edmonton. Transportation Planning Branch.
- Flink, C. A., Olka, K., & Searns, R. M. (2001). Trails for the twenty-first century: Planning, design, and management manual for multi-use trails. Washington, DC: Island Press.
- Forester, J. (1994). Bicycle transportation: A handbook for cycling transportation engineers. Cambridge, Mass: MIT Press.
- Hope, D., & Yachuk, D. (1990). Community cycling manual: A planning and design guide. Ottawa: Canadian Institute of Planners.
- Jensen, S. (2000). Collection of cycle concepts. Copenhagen: Road Directorate.
- Kenworth, J. R. (1999). An international sourcebook of automobile dependence in cities, 1960-1990. Boulder, CO: University Press of Colorado.
- Lagerway, P. A. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 23, the role of local bicycle/pedestrian coordinators. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Litman, T. (1995). Whose roads? : Defining bicyclists' and other non-drivers' rights to use roadways. Victoria, B.C.: Victoria Transport Policy Institute.
- Lowe, M. D. (1990). Alternatives to the automobile: Transport for livable cities. Cambridge, Mass: J. Tyrwhitt.
- Marr Consulting and Communications. (1993). Winnipeg bicycle facilities study: Final report. Winnipeg, MB: City of Winnipeg, Streets and Transportation Department.

- McClintock, H. (Ed.). (2002). Planning for cycling: Principles, practice, and solutions for urban planners. Cambridge, England: Woodhead Publishing.
- Moe, P. (1997). Bicycle and pedestrian planning under the intermodal surface transportation efficiency act (ISTEA): A synthesis of the state of the practice: Synthesis of bicycle and pedestrian planning under ISTEA. Chapel Hill, N.C.: University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center.
- Momentum Magazine, April/May 2001 – September/October 08, Vancouver B.C.
- Newman, P. (1991). Cities and automobile dependence: A sourcebook. Brookfield, VT.: Avebury Technical.
- Oakland, C. o. (1999). Bicycle master plan. Oakland, CA: City of Oakland.
- Oregon. Department of Transportation. (2002). Creating livable streets: Street design guidelines for 2040. Portland, OR: Metro Regional Services.
- Perry, D. B. (1995). Bike cult: The ultimate guide to human-powered vehicles. New York, N.Y.: Four Walls Eight Windows.
- Rails-to-Trails Conservancy. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 8, organizing citizen support and acquiring funding for bicycle and pedestrian trails. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.
- Springer, T. (1997). Hennepin county bicycle transportation plan. Minneapolis, MN: Hennepin County, Department of Public Works, Transportation Division.
- Stone, T. R. (1971). Beyond the automobile; reshaping the transportation environment. Englewood Cliffs, N.J.: Prentice-Hall.
- Sub-Committee, Manitoba Traffic Safety Committee. (1988). Safe cycling sub-committee report. Winnipeg: The Committee.

Vancouver, City of. Engineering Department. (1988). Vancouver comprehensive bicycle plan. Vancouver, BC: City of Vancouver.

Vancouver, Engineering Department. Transportation Division. (1992). Bicycle network study. Vancouver, BC: City of Vancouver.

Vertical File on Bicycle related topics, 19 articles

Wilkinson, W. C. (Ed.). (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 10. trading off among the needs of motor vehicle users, pedestrians, and bicyclists. Washington, DC: U.S. Department of Transportation.

Williams, J. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. case study no. 11, balancing engineering, education, law enforcement, and encouragement. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.

Williams, J. (1993). National bicycling and walking study. FHWA case study no. 22, the role of state bicycle/pedestrian coordinators. Washington, DC: Federal Highway Administration.

Winnipeg. Parks and Recreation Department. (1995). The red river corridor study. Winnipeg, MB: Winnipeg. Parks and Recreation Department.

Zegeer, C. (1994). The national bicycling and walking study: Transportation choices for a changing america: Final report. Washington, DC: U.S. Department of Transportation.